COL. DICK WALLACE, volunteer construction crew chief, is a retired Marine officer with a winter home in Maitland and a summer home in the mountains of Highland, N.C. His motto is, "it's better to wear out than rust out", so he keeps very busy volunteering for all kinds of projects. Without his help the CFCT sets would hardly get built! In their spare time Dick, and his wife "Nappy" (who volunteers her services for Braille work) play golf and bicycle.
